NAME THAT SEAL!

A large, dark-furred seal, possibly a fur seal, is shown resting on a light orange oval background. The seal has a thick, dark coat and a lighter-colored muzzle. It is positioned in the center of the page, with its head turned slightly to the right. The background is a solid light orange color, and there are other smaller, partially visible seals in the background.

A walrus is shown resting on a green oval background. The walrus has a brown, wrinkled body and two prominent, curved tusks. It is looking towards the right.
